Praises Len Small

George F. Barrett, Republican candidate for attorney general, who was one of the speakers at the Big Republican rally in the armory Wednesday night, praised Gov. Len Small for his tribute to former Gov. Len Small.

"I am proud and happy to come to Kankakee county," said Barrett, "and to see the great support that the Republican party has here."

Barrett, 360 South Main street, is making a heroic fight to insure a clean election in Chicago on Nov. 5. He promised the great audience that there will be no recurrence of what took place in 1939 when Dought H. Green was actually elected the Republican mayor of Chicago but was "routed out" when the night shift went to work.

More And More Voters Switch To Willkie

2 Attorneys Describe
Public Reaction To
Dictatorship Rule

Every day there is proof of Democrats turning to the Republican ticket but no one ever hears of a Republican switching to the Third Termers. This will be a great advantage to the Republican party in the election Nov. 5.

This circumstance was the subject of talks by Attorney Donald Gray and John A. Mayhew before a meeting of Republican workers of the first precinct of the Second ward and the first precinct of the Sixth ward last night.

The Republican county candidates Joseph Tolson for state attorney, Albert Tetraut for circuit clerk, and Ed Madison for coronor were present.

Other Meetings
The candidates also attended a meeting for ex-servicemen at K. C. hall, with Dr. R. O. Hawthorne in charge, a meeting of workers of the second precinct of the Second ward at the home of Committee-man John Heil, where Attorney Victor N. Cardosi was the speaker, and a meeting for Bradley men, at which Attorney Wayne H. Dyer was the speaker.

"This election," said Attorney Mayhew, "is more than just a contest between Republicans and Democrats. It will determine whether we continue to live as a self-governed people, or whether we have a dictator."

"If the Third Term candidate for president is re-elected, we are going to have war and dictatorship," said Mayhew.

To show how Democrats of the traditional Jeffersonian type are turning to the Republican party in this campaign, the speaker exhibited a pamphlet just published by a committee of prominent Chicago Democrats, among them Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the state supreme court, who a few years ago was a candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket.

This pamphlet especially condemns the breaking of the Third Term tradition and says, "This is an issue vital to the American people."

Attorney Mayhew reviewed how president after president of the United States refused to seek a third term, among them Thomas Jefferson, James Madison and Grover Cleveland, great Democrats because they believed a lengthy tenure in office is not good for the country.

Jefferson Refused It
"When Jefferson refused a third term," said the speaker, "conditions were much as they are today, in fact even more serious. Europe was blazing with war and this country was threatened. Europe was under the heel of despots. And this country was a young nation, its course still uncertain, and without the strength and riches it has today."

Still, Jefferson did not consider himself an indispensable man, nor did Washington, the Father of His Country.

Short talks also were made by Attorney Gray, district chairman of the Independent Willkie clubs, and Mrs. Elizabeth Mann, county Republican chairwoman.

Kamp Funeral At
Watseka Sunday

Watseka, Ill., Oct. 19.—(RN Special)—The funeral of Peter W. Kamp, Sr., who died early Thursday morning, will be held from the First Methodist church at 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

Until 2 o'clock Sunday the body may be viewed at his late residence 319 Park avenue.

Gets Maiden Name
Ramona Bottom was divorced from Charles Bottom of Bradley, also on grounds of desertion. They have no children. She was allowed to assume her maiden name of Ramona Jennette. Attorney Victor Lauridsen represented her.

Walter Laurence Schultz seeks freedom from his wife, Lucille Schultz, whom he married Nov. 25, 1933. They separated last Aug. 20 and he accused his wife of extreme cruelty, citing an instance on last July 15 when she said she hit him causing injuries, and on Aug. 19, when she said to have struck and beat him, among other occasions. They have a daughter Mary Lucille, aged 5. Attorney Lauridsen represented the plaintiff.

The other case filed was that of Alice Favors to whom she was married March 14, 1928 at Joliet. They separated April 1, 1938. Desertion was charged. She was awarded custody of their two children, Rae, 11, Jean, 8, and support money. Both of the above wives were represented by Attorney Samuel Shapiro.

Five divorce cases were filed yesterday and today in the office of Circuit Clerk Albert Tetraut. Three of them were granted the same day filed. All plaintiffs reside in Kankakee.

Edna Geiger was divorced from John Geiger, to whom she was married April 14, 1907 at South Bend. They separated Nov. 13, 1938. He has four children, three of adult age and one minor, Edie, 17, whose custody was awarded to the mother. Desertion was the charge.

Actions Speak Louder Than Words

Sam Shapiro, like other Democratic candidates, is trying to fool and mislead organized labor to believe he is a great friend of the labor cause.

Let's look at Shapiro's labor record. He has been and is now one of the owners and the directing influence behind the Kankakee Star, a weekly handbill distributed in Kankakee.

Since Sam Shapiro has been an owner, he has placed his brother in as manager to promote his political ambitions. Shapiro has been spending money lavishly and for some time has been living in a luxurious apartment in the Hotel Kankakee.

Union men are saying, "Sam Shapiro has been employed by the unions on numerous occasions to represent them. Then why hasn't he been fair enough to union labor to have his printing done in a union shop?"

Ever since Sam Shapiro has been an owner of the handbill, he has had it printed in a NON-UNION SHOP.

"Elect Willkie To Preserve Our Freedom"

Senator Hiram Johnson
Voices Radio Plea
To Voters Of Nation

Washington D. C., Oct. 19.—"Elect Wendell Willkie to preserve American liberty" was the plea by radio last night of Hiram Johnson, senior senator from California, a man of great influence in congress.

A veteran liberal statesman, outspoken on vital issues, regarded as a great patriot, Johnson is intensely popular in California and the west. Highlights from his speech follow:

"Mr. Roosevelt, in seeking a third term, has contributed a perfect example of every danger and evil which Thomas Jefferson foresaw so clearly, and against which he warned his countrymen so earnestly."

Wants "Inheritance"
"If Mr. Roosevelt sees fit to increase his term four years more, he can increase it eight, or 16, and finally, as Jefferson once said, the presidential office becomes an inheritance."

"Consider the power that the President now has. He has given to himself the right to the pocketbook of the nation. By his innumerable boards and commissions he deals with nearly all the problems of life and enforces his will alone concerning them."

"We have seen billions of dollars that he could spend at will, with places by the hundreds of thousands read into his will, with the army and navy under his control and the conduct of foreign relations in his hands. Who could ask for more?"

Another "Crisis"
"The defense program has been the opportunity for a few men in this country to frighten our people, and to cause a hysteria presented to us as a crisis such as we have never seen before."

"The people were made to believe that St. Louis and Omaha were about to be bombed, and every species of propaganda was called into use to increase their fears. Then mysterious whisperings were heard about changing horses in the middle of the stream, and then the Indispensable Man was born."

This presents in greater degree than a flaming war, with its cruel destruction of peaceful nations, a crisis purely American. This is a greater crisis, and perhaps is more far-reaching, than any other.

He Chooses Willkie
"I emphasize this is an American crisis alone, and for that reason we must solve it ourselves as Americans, in order that our coveted and boasted"

Kankakee Group To Present Play At
Purdue U. On Nov. 7

"Who Gets The Car Tonight," a play, will be presented by a group of farm people of Kankakee county as one of Illinois' contributions to the annual national rural forum at Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 6 to 8. Director of the play is Mrs. Emil Weber of Manteno.

Presentation of the play by the Kankakee county group won for them an "A" rating in the music and drama contests during annual Farm and Home week at the University of Illinois last January, according to D. E. Lindstrom, extension rural sociologist, who is in charge of the presentation of the play. The play will be presented at 8:30 p. m., Thursday, Nov. 7.

The theme of the forum this year is "Building Rural Communities." As usual the meeting is being sponsored by the American Country Life Association.

Sen. Johnson's Talk Pleases GOP Nominee

Aboard Willkie Train En Route to Minneapolis, Oct. 19.—Wendell L. Willkie began a week-end campaign tour through Wisconsin and Minnesota today by expressing gratification that Senator Hiram Johnson (R-Calif.) had announced support of the Republican presidential nominee.

"I have known of Senator Johnson's career since he was a boy," the candidate told a train-side crowd at Lacrosse, Wis. He traced Johnson's service as a San Francisco prosecutor, California governor and senator.

"Whether you agree or disagree with him," Willkie said, "he has always had the courage of his convictions no matter how strong the opposition nor how high an office his opponent might occupy."

Willkie predicted that "You will read in a few days of other outspoken American citizens" supporting him.

"The argument of Senator Johnson centers largely on the third term," he said. "The fundamentals, the traditions are what make any people great. We have become strong because this great free land of ours was founded on certain principles and because certain traditions have grown up. These are the things around which liberty-loving people must gather and must worship."

Willkie declared that "The Democratic national committee to the contrary, this blessed country is going to make it so that any boy can aspire to any position no matter what his ancestry."

Makes First Visit
Here In 70 Years

T. H. Pollock, superintendent of the water corporation at Plattsmouth, Neb., and a native of Kankakee, is making his first visit to the city of his birth in 70 years.

Mr. Pollock will be at the home of his daughter, Mrs. L. O. Minor, 1225 Cobb boulevard, for the next few days. He is a great admirer of the late Thomas Pollock who was in business in Kankakee until moving to Plattsmouth in 1870. T. H. Pollock was born here in 1867.

No Draft Card, No
Liquor, Says Mayor

Tavern owners who in the past may have unwittingly served liquor to minors will have no excuse for so doing in the future, Mayor Albert F. Hattenburg, announced today.

If a bartender is in doubt about the age of a prospective customer, he can verify it by asking to see his draft registration certificate, according to the mayor who is liquor commissioner of the city. All men between ages 21 and 36 are required to carry their draft cards at all times.

St. Paul Cub Pack
Receives Charter

Cub pack No. 7 of St. Paul Episcopal church had an investiture ceremony and badge and charter presentation Friday evening at the church.

I. C. Randolph, cub master, presented badges to the following boys: Ray Ahlvin, Frederick Hill, Joseph Kottendorf, Billy Randolph, Billy Beckman, Byron Siros, Richard Weindt, Robert Wells, Jack Kase and Richard Ray.

Clifford Mann, chairman of the pack committee, received the charter from Field Executive Paul Young, representing the Rainbow council.

The pack committee besides Mr. Mann includes Gerald Mark, Dr. Reno Ahlvin, F. Waldo Roth, Lester Siros and Cedric Patchett.

Besides 20 cubs present a large number of den mothers and parents were in attendance. Scrapbooks made by the cubs were on display.

Illinois' Quota In First
Year Of Draft, 62,223 Men

Washington, Oct. 19.—(UP)—Selective service headquarters today made public the tentative quotas which each of the 48 states will be called upon to contribute to the 600,000 selective service trainees scheduled to be summoned by the army in the next year.

The figures were prepared by Capt. Robert H. Over, chief of the quota section. He did not explain how they were arrived at but emphasized that they are purely tentative.

The number of one-year volunteers offering their services through their local boards will be counted off against the quotas. Thus, if a state with a quota of 10,000 gets 5,000 such volunteers, only 5,000 will have to be drafted.

The states, by corps area and their quotas include:
5th corps area: Indiana, 21,087; Kentucky, 9,154; Ohio, 53,497; West Virginia, 8,454.

6th corps area: Illinois, 62,223;

1-Man Show

William Bob Smith, "one-man vaudeville show," will provide some of the entertainment for the big free public dance and program Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Knights of Columbus hall in Kankakee. This event is under the auspices of the Young Republican club of Kankakee county.

New Plant
Will Be At Wilmington

Authoritative sources said today that the proposed $50,000,000 munitions plant intended to be built near Kankakee by the government in its defense program will not be constructed in this county but will be built near Wilmington. It was decided to be the best policy to place the new buildings near the site of munitions production plants there.

The War department awarded contracts several weeks ago for the construction of a TNT plant and an ammunition loading plant at Wilmington. The new addition, although located at Wilmington, will be known as the Kankakee Ordnance Works.

Young Republicans
Plan Another Big
Time Monday Night

By this time, the Young Republican club of Kankakee county has proven that it doesn't do things by halves.

The meeting of Young Republicans two weeks ago in the Kankakee city hall was probably one of the finest political meetings of young people ever held in this county.

The torchlight parade sponsored by the Young Republicans Wednesday evening was practically as complete and colorful as those of a quarter century ago when such occasions were common and elaborately provided for.

Now, Monday night's dance is intended to be one of the largest and finest of its kind ever seen in the county.

The program will start at 8 o'clock, with entertainment and short speech-making by Miss Jessie Sumner, Republican candidate for reelection as congresswoman of this district, followed by dancing to the music of Earl Betourne's orchestra.

Dies To Stump Nation; Sounds A Warning

Declares There Are 300 Thousand 5th Columnists In United States

New Orleans, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Representative Martin Dies (D-Tex.) said today there were at least 300,000 dangerous fifth columnists in the United States and announced he planned to take the stump in Toledo, Ohio, immediately for a series of 25 "non-political" speeches to awaken the nation to the existing danger.

Dies said his speeches would demand of presidential candidates Franklin D. Roosevelt and Wendell L. Willkie clear-cut and definite statements in support of a proposal to outlaw Nazi, Communist and Fascist organizations in the United States.

"I'm going to ask the candidates and ask the American people to demand of them that they outlaw these un-American organizations," Dies said in an interview here. He is the chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities.

F.D.R. Evasive
He said he already had put the question to the candidates, but that President Roosevelt had given an evasive answer and Willkie had failed to reply.

"They are scared stiff, both of them, that they might antagonize a few votes in next month's election," the Texan declared.

Dies said American defense industry was "honeycombed with fifth columnists and potential saboteurs."

His committee, he said, is preparing a list of 300,000 alleged fifth columnists which will be turned over to the state department and federal bureau of investigation.

"Unless we wake up and act to purge public payrolls and defense industries of fifth columnists, we will find ourselves confused and helpless like France," Dies said.

Biography Of A Bum

The first screen title, professing to introduce the theme of Paramount's "The Great McGinty," which comes to the Luna theater tonight at midnight, quotes a well known ditty:

"This story has no moral.
This story has no end.
This story only goes to show
There ain't no good in men."

Writer-director Preston Sturges labeled his newest screen effort thus, and goes on to say that "really it's the biography of a bum."

Actually, however, "Down Went McGinty," points a strong moral, has an uproarious ending and man-ages to show a little good in a lot of men.

Movie Kick Is Realistic

The "kick of the century" landed recently right on the seat of Brian Aherne's fine grey pants.

It wasn't exactly a "kick heard kick whose dull thud registered very distinctly on an overhanging microphone" the world—but it was a rophone.

You see, the kick was delivered by Rosalind Russell (who would put a Notre Dame football back to shame) for a scene in Universal's comedy "Hired Wife" which opens at the Paramount theater on Sunday.

Emotional Scene
In the scene Miss Russell was very mad at Aherne and was about to walk out on him. Going out the door, she looked back and saw Aherne bending over his desk taking on the telephone.

A gleam of devilment lit up her face but she smothered it and turned back to the door. Then she suddenly dashed across the room and delivered the aforementioned kick.

The first "take" wasn't exactly what producer-director William Seiter wanted. While Rosalind's kick was heard, it landed a bit too far to the right. One thing or another also went wrong with "takes" two, three, four and five. Seiter ordered another. Rosalind glanced at Aherne to see if he could take it.

"On he's all right," said Seiter, "you're not hurting him."

Courtesy Prevails
Always the gentleman, Brian agreed—with a grimace. So the sixth and final "take" was made. It was perfect.

Miss Russell, Aherne and Virginia Bruce are co-starred in "Hired Wife" which numbers among its supporting cast Robert Benchley, John Carroll and others.

Who Was 1st To Call Him 'Great Profile?'

John Barrymore is trying to give credit where credit is due, but so far, he has been unable to locate the person to whom he can give full credit for nicknaming him "The Great Profile."

During the filming of "The Great Profile," which stars him and comes to the Luna theater on Wednesday, the question arose as to who had bestowed this fanciful appellation upon him. From a story then making the rounds, most people were under the impression that he himself coined this title. It seems that when Barrymore was playing comedy in his early youth he is said to have announced that he was giving it up to go into heavy drama because as he was supposed to have put it, "I have a great profile."

Barrymore destroyed this legend and disclaimed all credit. On the set of "The Great Profile," Barrymore was certain that he had nothing to do with origination of his nickname.

"It's a good story," he said, "except that it isn't quite true. However, I will assume credit for it until they dig up the man who first hung it on me."

Supporting Barrymore in "The Great Profile" is a brilliant cast including Mary Beth Hughes, Gregory Ratoff, John Payne, Anne Baxter and Lionel Atwill. Walter Lang directed and Raymond Griffith was associate producer.

Famous Americans Seen In "Ramparts"

Among the characters in "The Ramparts We Watch" who succeed in bringing to life this graphic story of America's role in the world war era are Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, Gen. John J. Pershing, Herbert Hoover, Kaiser Wilhelm, Newton D. Baker and young Franklin Roosevelt.

Historic scenes in this first full-length feature picture of The March of Time, such as President Wilson's War Proclamation speech, his trip to Paris to attend the Versailles Peace Conference; Gen. Pershing reviewing American troops; the last ill-fated voyage of the Lusitania; world war battle scenes; Assistant Secretary of Navy Roosevelt's inspection trip of American troops in France; and many other actual pictorial records of this most important crisis in American history, have never before been seen on U. S. movie screens.

But for the tireless research of The March of Time staff, this material might have stayed forever unknown. This story of ordinary American people against the backdrop of actual recorded history might have remained untold.

Now, however, it can be told, because over a period of many months staff members of the March of Time selected the most significant newsreel shots from more than 300,000 feet of film in the priceless motion picture collections of the U. S. Army Signal Corps, the National Archives in Washington, the Imperial War Museum in London, and the Archives Cinematographiques in Paris. Foot by foot these rare films were scanned, selected and rejected until the moving, prophetic, and unique story of America's war years was assembled.

unlettered, unrefined and highly bellicose "man in the street," who punches his way into the favor of an equally charming political boss, played by Akim Tamiroff.

When McGinty decides to give the people a break, his political career hits an abrupt snag and it is just about now that Mr. Sturges decides to call his picture "the biography of a bum."

The picture is said to have a pretty hilarious ending, even in the face of what happens to McGinty and his boss, but we won't comment on that until we've seen it.
